So many things had changed, but I still adored my God. I felt like I was my God's little child, so I began by reading the Bible. That particular story had an impact on me. How could those two young ladies have given birth by his father? I was disgusted.

I wanted to speak with Jesus. My mind was racing with 1000 questions. I never want to leave my life as it was in school. So many things have been taken from me in this life. I never wanted to make the same mistake again. I asked God what I had done wrong. Should I continue to live this life? I desired to hear from God. I prayed to God for guidance on what I should do next. I wasn't comparing myself to anyone else. But no one, not even my parents, was like me (as Disabled).

"Within the pages of the Bible, we find solace, inspiration, and a profound connection to the divine, guiding us on our journey of faith and understanding."
